

Grow Your Career in Therapeutic Horsemanship at Centenary University!

Offering opportunities to:

- Earn a Bachelor of Science in Equine Studies: Therapeutic Horsemanship Management.
- Earn a Minor in Therapeutic Riding Instruction.
- Fulfill all requirements for PATH Intl. Certified Therapeutic Riding Instructor (CTRI) application and prepare for the CTRI exam. (8-credits. Open to enrolled undergraduates and non-matriculated course auditors. Pre-requisites apply.)
- Grow professionally with industry education geared towards the PATH Intl. Equine Specialist in Mental Health and Learning (ESMHL) certification and the Advanced Therapeutic Riding Instructor certification.

CU's Equestrian Center is the proud home of Therapeutic Riding At Centenary (TRAC)!

About TRAC:

- Recognized by the Professional Association of Therapeutic Horsemanship International (PATH Intl.) as a Premier Accredited Center.
- Serves 25 participants weekly through therapeutic riding lessons, and an additional 50+ individuals per year through equine-assisted learning programs.
- Offers an in-house practicum site for students and equine-industry professionals to fulfill PATH Intl. certification requirements.
- Supported by 75+ volunteers per year, including many CU students!

Top jobs after graduation include:

- Therapeutic Riding Instructor
- Program Manager
- Volunteer Manager
- Instructor and Equine Care Assistant at EAS program

Recent graduates have found employment with Maryland Therapeutic Riding Center, Loudoun Therapeutic Riding, Pony Powers of NJ, Dreamweaver Equine Center, Ivy Hill Therapeutic Riding, and Mane Stream, Inc.

For more information:

Karen Brittle, Assistant Professor of Equine Studies and Director of TRAC (908)852-1400 extension 2174
karen.brittle@centenaryuniversity.edu

