

Drug and Alcohol Prevention Programs at Centenary College

Centenary College has a no-tolerance policy in relation to drug use. The College takes this issue very seriously. Any student who violates this policy is subject to penalties, depending on the outcome of the judicial process at Centenary.

- Centenary College has a no-tolerance policy in relation to the issue of drug and underage alcohol use.
- Alcohol awareness workshops are available.
 - At the annual First-Year Orientation, Centenary sponsors a speaker who discusses the dangers of drug and alcohol abuse.
 - The Centenary College Athletic Department has had a drug and alcohol program in place since 2003, which includes education about problems with substance abuse, random drug testing and facilitating appropriate treatment and rehabilitation in conjunction with Drug Free Sport official partner of the NCAA. Mandatory attendance is required for athletes to listen to an expert's presentation on the subject.
- Bystander Awareness Program implemented at Centenary College (Green Dot) in 2011. Green Dot trains individuals to become active bystanders in helping people who are in potentially dangerous situations.
- Informal training of athletes to help teammates who may be in trouble. Coaches emphasize the importance of being aware of surroundings and paying attention to helping fellow teammates steer clear of dangerous behavior or substances.
- The creation of the Your Campus...Own it! office, which is a one-stop shop for tools and information about creating a campus culture that does not tolerate interpersonal violence or drug and alcohol abuse.
- The Centenary College Counseling Center provides private counseling sessions on any issues that may affect the well-being of a student.