

Earn Your Master of EDUCATION in Literacy Instruction

Earn your Master of Education Degree in Literacy Instruction with a NJ Reading Specialist Certification in this 33-credit graduate program and choose between the following certificate/licensure options to pair with your degree:

Supervisor's Licensure or ESL Certification

New blended format — meet on campus only once a month for an in-person class. All of the other meetings are online via Zoom or asynchronous from the convenience of your home/office.

- Enjoy a supportive learning environment with advisors available to you on evenings and weekends.
- Increase student achievement by learning the most up-to-date, research-based best practices in literacy instruction.
- Enhance classroom practice, become a reading specialist, literacy coach, curriculum supervisor, etc.
- Engage with a curriculum built on research-based, best practices in literacy instruction.

Become a leader in the field of literacy instruction. Learn to:

- Apply research and theory to provide students with the most progressive literacy instruction.
- Develop supportive, student-centered literacy curricula including the most current instructional strategies, assessment techniques, and integration of standards.
- Coach teachers and instructional leaders to enhance understanding of literacy development and create supportive environments for all learners.
- Research and explore "hot topics" in literacy instruction such as equity, access, critical literacy, diversity and motivation.

Questions? Contact:

Program Director: Lexis McCoy
Lexis.Mccoy@centenaryuniversity.edu
(908) 852-1400 ext. 2276

Assistant Director for Graduate Enrollment: Simona Scalisi
Simona.Scalisi@centenaryuniversity.edu
(908) 852-1400 ext. 2078

centu.org/literacy